3. Government servants not to be employed on private business.—The employment of a Government servant or a person in inferior service in making purchases or in any private matters in which the receipt or expenditure of money is concerned is most strictly prohibited. It is however not intended that this prohibition should preclude an officer from employing a Government servant or a person in inferior service to provide for him a conveyance or necessary supplies while he is travelling on duty, though in all such transactions constant vigilance is needed to prevent cheating and extortion.

Public Servant taking gratification other than legal remuneration in respect of an official act.

161. Whoever, being or expecting to be a public servant, accepts or obtains or agrees to accept or attempts to obtain from any person, for himself or for any other person, any gratification whatever, other than legal remuneration, as a motive or reward for doing or forbearing to do any official act or for showing or forbearing to show, in the exercise of his official functions, favour or disfavour to any person, or for rendering or attempting to render any service or disservice to any person, with the Legislative or Executive Government of India or with the Government of any Presidency, or with any Lieutenant-Governor, or with any public servant, as such, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both

Explanations.—"Expecting to be a public servant." If a person not expecting to be in office obtains a gratification by deceiving others into a belief that he is about to be in office, and that he will then serve them, he may be guilty of cheating, but he is not guilty of the offence defined in this section.

"Gratification." The word "gratification" is not restricted to pecuniary gratifications, or to gratifications estimable in money.

"Legal remuneration." The words "legal remuneration" are not restricted to remuneration which a public servant can lawfully demand, but include all remuneration which he is permitted by the Government, which he serves, to accept.

"A motive or reward for doing." A person who receives a gratification as a motive for doing what he does not intend to do, or as a reward for doing what he has not done, comes within these words.

Illustrations.—(a) A, a munsif, obtains from Z, a banker, a situation in Z's bank for A's brother, as a reward to A for deciding a cause in favour of Z. A has committed the offence defined in this section.

(b) A holding the office of Resident at the Court of a subsidiary Power, accepts a lakh of rupees from the Minister of that Power. It does not appear that A accepted this sum as a motive or reward for doing or forbearing to do any particular official act, or for rendering or attempting to render any particular service to that Power with the British Government. But it does appear that A accepted the sum as a motive or reward for generally showing favour in the exercise of his official functions to that Power. A has committed the offence defined in this section.

(c) A, a public servant, induces Z erroneously to believe that A's influence with the Government has obtained a title for Z, and thus induces Z to give A money as a reward for this service. A has committed the offence defined in this section.

Taking gratification in order, by corrupt or illegal means, to influence public servant.

162 Whoever accepts or obtains, or agrees to accept, or attempts to obtain, from any person, for himself or for any other person, any gratification whatever as a motive or reward for inducing, by corrupt or illegal means, any public servant to do or to forbear to do any official act, or in the exercise of the official functions of such public servant to show favour or disfavour to any person, or to render or attempt to render any service or disservice to any person with the Legislative or Executive Government of India, or with the Government of any Presidency, or with any Lieutenant Governor or with any member of the Senate of the Allahabad University, or with any public servant, as such, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both.

Taking gratification for exercise of personal influence with public servant.

163 Whoever accepts or obtains, or agrees to accept or attempts to obtain, from any person, for himself or for any other person, any gratification whatever, as a motive or reward for inducing, by the exercise of personal influence, any public servant to do or to forbear to do any official act, or in the exercise of the official functions of such public servant to show favour or disfavour to any person, or to render or attempt to render any service or disservice to any person with the Legislative or Executive Government of India, or with the Government of any Presidency, or with any Lieutenant-Governor or with any member of the Senate of the Allahabad University or with any public servant, as such, shall be punished with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both.

Illustration.—An advocate who receives a fee for arguing a case before a Judge, a person who receives pay for arranging and correcting a memorial addressed to Government, setting forth the services and claims of the memorialist; a paid agent for a condemned criminal, who lays before the Government statements tending to show that the condemnation was unjust,—are not within this section, inasmuch as they do not exercise or profess to exercise personal influence.

Punishment for abetment by public servant of offences defined in section 162 or 163.

164 Whoever, being a public servant, in respect of whom either of the offences defined in the last two preceding sections is committed, abets the offence, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both.

Illustration.—A is a public servant. B, A's wife, receives a present as a motive for soliciting A to give an office to a particular person. A abets her doing so. B is punishable with imprisonment for a term not exceeding one year, or with fine, or with both. A is punishable with imprisonment for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both.

Public servant obtaining valuable thing without consideration, from person concerned in proceeding or business transacted by such public servant.

165. Whoever, being a public servant, accepts or obtains, or agrees to accept or attempts to obtain, for himself, or for any other person, any valuable thing without consideration, or for a consideration which he knows to be inadequate, from any person whom he knows to have been, or to be, or to be likely to be concerned in any proceeding or business transacted or about to be transacted by such public servant, or having any connection with the official functions of himself or of any public servant to whom he is subordinate, or from any person whom he knows to be interested in or related to the person so concerned, shall be punished with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to two years, or with fine, or with both.

Illustrations.—(a) A, a Collector, hires a house of Z, who has a settlement case pending before him. It is agreed that A shall pay, fifty rupees a month, the house being such that, if the bargain were made in good faith, A would be required to pay two hundred rupees a month. A has obtained a valuable thing from Z without adequate consideration.

(b) A, a Judge, buys of Z, who has a cause pending in A's Court, Government promissory notes at a discount, when they are selling in the market at a premium. A has obtained a valuable thing from Z without adequate consideration.

(c) Z's brother is apprehended and taken before A, a Magistrate, on a charge of perjury. A sells to Z shares in a bank at a premium, when they are selling in the market at a discount. Z pays A for the shares accordingly. The money so obtained by A is a valuable thing obtained by him without adequate consideration.

Public servant disobeying law with intent to cause injury to any person.

166. Whoever, being a public servant, knowingly disobeys any direction of the law as to the way in which he is to conduct himself as such public servant, intending to cause, or knowing it to be likely that he will, by such disobedience, cause injury to any person, shall be punished with simple imprisonment for a term which may extend to one year, or with fine, or with both.

Illustration.—A, being an officer directed by law to take property in execution, in order to satisfy a decree pronounced in Z's favour by a Court of Justice, knowingly disobeys that direction of law, with the knowledge that he is likely thereby to cause injury to Z. A has committed the offence defined in this section.

Public servant framing an incorrect document with intent to cause injury.

167. Whoever, being a public servant, and being, as such public servant, charged with the preparation or translation of any document, frames or translates that document in a manner which he knows or believes to be incorrect, intending thereby to cause or knowing it to be likely that he may thereby cause injury to any person, shall be punished with imprisonment of either description for a term which may extend to three years, or with fine, or with both.

The recommendations of the Special Settlement Officer for the revision of the rates of water-cess in force under the Karnool-Cuddapah Canal and the sources other than the Karnool-Cuddapah Canal and the Sidhapuram and Venkatapuram tanks in the Karnool district were published in the Karnool District Gazette Extraordinary, dated the 27th January 1930, as a supplement to the scheme report of the district. The following drafts of the rules for the levy of water-cess framed in accordance with the recommendations of the Settlement Officer, which the Governor in Council proposes to make in exercise of the powers conferred by section 1 of the Madras Irrigation Cess Act, 1865 (Madras Act VII of 1865), are hereby published, as required by section 3 of Madras Act V of 1900, for general information. Annexure Letter from S. Bodkinayan, Esq., I.C.S., Special Settlement Officer, Party No. 116, Cuddapah No. 101, dated the 16th July 1936.

I submit my proposals for the revision of rates of water-cess for irrigation under the Siddapuram tank.

2. The Siddapuram project tank is situated in the Kandukur taluk at the foot of the Nallamalais, seven miles east of Atmakur and four miles east of Pamapuram. The entire bed of the tank has within the old Velgode forest reserve limits de-reserved and occupied by the perunal tribes settlement. There was formerly a ruined tank on the site with a bund about four miles long, the southern end of which was at the Siddapuram Fort and the northern end on the ridge between the Bhavanasi and Galeru rivers. There were numerous breaches in the bund. At first it was proposed to restore the tank completely. But this scheme proved costly and it was finally decided to improve only the southern portion of the old tank lying between the Dornal Pass road and the waterfall on the Galeru river. Accordingly an estimate was sanctioned by the Government in the year 1907 for Rs. 5,54,404. But owing to certain deviations from the original estimate, the amount was raised to Rs. 9,19,000 in 1910. The work was completed by the middle of 1919 and irrigation commenced in the same year.

3. The capacity of the tank was fixed at 915·90 million cubic feet and it was expected that it would fill 21 times ordinarily and 14 times in years of good rainfall. The areas intended to be benefited by the project were in the revenue villages of Atmakur, Siddapalle, Pamapuram and the ex-inam village of Krishnapuram. An extent of 4,250 acres was originally proposed for irrigation but the figure was subsequently reduced to 2,700 acres when the distributaries were actually aligned. A net increase of Rs. 27,020 on the revenue representing a return of 2·85 per cent of the capital outlay was anticipated.

4. The entire commandable area was expected to be brought under irrigation in the course of three years. It was at first proposed that all irrigable Government dry lands should be converted to wet, that water-cess should be charged on the minor inam lands at differential water rates, and that the lands in the whole main villages should be charged water-cess at a flat rate of Rs. 5 per acre. Subsequently, the idea of converting dry lands to wet was given up and fixed rates of water-cess was ordered to be levied (vide G.O. Ms. No. 949 dated 11th April 1911) at Rs. 4-11-0 for wet crops and Rs. 4-11-0 for dry crops. The supply received by the tank, however, fell far below expectations. The tank was designed to hold 23 feet of water, but at no time has it received more than 16 feet. The irrigation was therefore limited to a selected extent of 833 acres and in order to induce the ryots to take water freely when it became available, the Government in the year 1921 reduced the rates of water-cess for wet and dry crops to Rs. 4-8-0 and Rs. 2-4-0 for a period of five years. As the reduced rates did not have any appreciable effect in increasing wet cultivation, the Government restored the original rates in the year 1927. In order to secure storage and for better control of water, the two distributary channels which were originally designed for a much larger extent have been ordered to be remodelled to suit the reduced extent. But the work has been deferred till funds became available. Some of the glaring defects in the original scheme have also been removed by eliminating the high level lands of Siddhapalle and including lands actually under wet cultivation but previously not included. Thus a revised extent of 1,000 acres was fixed by the Government in the year 1933 in consultation with the Director and the Public Works Department authorities.

5. The tank has been classified as a first-class source of irrigation, though there is no registered wet extent under it. The tank was no doubt designed to hold and is capable of holding twelve months supply, if received. But in fact, the supply actually received has been very much less. I have already mentioned that though the tank is designed to hold 23 feet of water, it has at no time received more than 16 feet. From the registers maintained by the Public Works Department, it is seen that the supply is not only inadequate, but also uncertain and irregular. The sluices are rarely opened before October; the only exceptions to this being in August 1929 and September 1925 and 1931. Sowing is done in July or early in August, and the young crops soon ruin water until October, after which in the comparatively dry months of November and December, it requires tank water to keep it alive till harvest time. But in 1925, 1931, 1935 and 1936, the tank gave out completely. In these circumstances, even the sown paddy in July stands a considerable risk of losing his crop altogether, and in fact he often has to cut the standing crop for use as fodder in September and sow a dry crop in its place. It is therefore not surprising that the average area irrigated in the last five links is only just over 200 acres (excluding 196 acres in the ex-inam tribes settlement enjoying concessional rates) or about one-fifth of the extent as finally determined in 1925. The present classification of the tank is thus clearly inappropriate, and I therefore propose that the tank be placed in the second class.

6. The area under regular wet cultivation is small. The standard of wet cultivation is comparatively poor. The seed sown with a drill, and the fields are not kept under water continuously. The soil is not fertile and although best manure is available in plenty, it is not generally used. In the Kurnool district, successful wet cultivation is practically confined to the neighbourhood of large centres of population, where labour capital and enterprise are available. But the villages commanded by this project are situated at the foot of the Nallamalais and are forests and backward. The present rates of water-cess, added to dry assessment, are equal to the wet assessment on the best lands under the Nandyal tank, but the yields under the two tanks are far from comparable. Moreover, the present rates are 50 per cent higher than the fixed rates of water-cess proposed for other first and second class sources in the district. I consider that there is no justification for continuing to levy these high rates, and I therefore propose that the following rates of water-cess (which are the same as the rates proposed for other first and second class sources in the district) be levied on the irrigation of wet and dry crops on the lands commanded by the Siddapuram project tank, except in the area allotted to the perunal tribes settlement for the irrigation of which the Government have sanctioned concessional rates till fasli 1345. These concessional rates may continue except for the irrigation of dry crops between the fourth and tenth years for which the rates may be reduced from Rs. 2-8-0 to Rs. 2.

	Rate per acre. Rs. A. P.
1 For a first wet crop	6 0 0
2 For a dry crop (whether first, second, or third crop which receiving on the ground for [illegible] are their six months)	2 8 0

No alteration which is made by the tenderer in the contract form will be recognized and if any such alterations are made, the tender will be void.

9 No part of the contract shall be sublet without written permission of the Executive Engineer nor shall tenders be made by power-of-attorney authorising others to receive payment on the contractor's behalf.

10. The Executive Engineer or other sanctioning authority reserves the right to reject any tender or all the tenders without assigning any reason therefor.

11 All materials required by the Public Works Department should be supplied without delay as per specifications that will be attached to the agreement and for the rate tendered in the schedule. No deduction for voids in materials stacked will be made if the stacking is done closely and properly and in case of loose or improper packing, a suitable percentage deduction will be made by the officer taking measurements at checking them, especially the subordinate immediately in charge Sub-divisional Officer, Central Subdivision, or Executive Engineer Kistna Western Division. Complete restacking, if required by the contractor at his own expense, in case loose or improper stacking is observed or ordered to be done.

12 Materials must be delivered, loaded and stacked on the points or ramps beds within twenty-four hours of the arrival of the boats at the canal bank, failing which a fine will be imposed equal to the towing rate paid to the conveyance contractor for every twenty-four hours' delay in unloading thereof. In case of materials to be delivered and stacked in wagons the demurrage that may be charged by the railway due to the delay in loading will also be recovered.

13. The tenderer must bind himself to work the quarry to the satisfaction of the Executive Engineer Kistna Western Division, or other officer deputed by him.

14. The contractor is not allowed to make private sales of quarry materials.

15 In consideration of the contractor being allowed to use the tram line and trucks free of hire, he will be held responsible for the proper upkeep of the tram line and trucks and return of the same in good order. The full cost of repairs to the plant and tram line will be borne by the contractor. The cost of rectifying any special damages other than those due to fair wear and tear caused to the tramway plant entrusted to the contractor should also be borne by him. If the repairs to the tram line and trucks referred to above are not carried out by the contractor within a reasonable time as fixed by the Executive Engineer, Kistna Western Division the above will be carried out by the Public Works Department and the expenditure including overhead charges recovered from the sums due to the contractor.

16. The quarry and the precincts of the basin at the canal should be kept clean of rubbish and hauled back as cleared at the termination of agreement or at the time defined in the succeeding clause. The contractor has no lease on the quarry but he is permitted to occupy it only for supplying Government materials.

17. If the quarry is required by the Public Works Department at any time the contractor must stack any materials quarried and lying in the quarry within seven days of written notice to vacate the quarry and shall not be entitled to remove any material not required by the Public Works Department, or not taken over by the Public Works Department within the aforesaid period nor to be entitled to any compensation for any other loss he may sustain from whatever cause arising by reason of order to vacate the quarry. The agreement will automatically be terminated by such order to vacate the quarry.

18. The contractor will be paid on the accepted measurements at the unloading station.

On receipt of intimation by him of confirmation of the sale, by the Executive Engineer West Coast Division the successful tenderer shall remove all the articles from their present site, within a month from the date of receipt of such intimation. This period of one month will not, save under exceptional circumstances, be extended.
